

A Letter of Recommendation

I have known Robyn Dombey for over 5 years in both a professional and personal capacity. She is one of the most talented, methodically driven, and creative individuals I have the pleasure of knowing. Robyn and I share a passion for the creative art of Fashion as we both have dedicated our careers to the industry. Robyn's early days working within world renowned luxury fashion houses such as Lanvin, Marc Jacobs, and Alexander McQueen sparked our friendship as we thoroughly enjoy sharing stories from our unique early career experiences. Until recently, I contracted as a freelance Patternmaking Instructor for Made Institute, where Robyn is currently the Director. I am beyond inspired by Robyn's drive and ambition as she ascended to the position of Director within a short period of time.

Her willingness to proactively dive into work and utilize open-minded problem solving skills makes her a critical asset to the success of the Institute as a whole. During the Covid-19 pandemic, she single handedly planned and initiated a swift transition of the entire curriculum onto an online learning platform. Since then, I have watched her success rise as the student enrollment doubled, leading to the opening of a second location for the school.

As a full-time entrepreneur, I often consult Robyn's guidance and expertise to navigate difficult decision making processes that impact the profitability and operations of my business. She has effectively helped to increase sales of my clothing line by 30%, analyzing niche market segments and helped me devise a selling strategy catered to that market.

I can not say enough about Robyn's creative capabilities, professionalism, and aptitude for learning new systems. She is a level-up addition to any team.

With sincerity,
